With distillation equipment like that shown above (left)—believed to be the largest glass-blown still of its kind anywhere—Imperial Oil chemists at Sarnia, Ontario made test after test on prairie crude oils. As a result, Imperial's new $28,500,000 petrochemical plant there can run on "feed" derived from almost any western crude oil. The plant, part of which is shown at right, began operating this fall. It produces chemical "building blocks" that other industries turn into hundreds of consumer goods, such as synthetic fabrics, plastic, synthetic rubber and anti-freeze.

Of Many Things (By Ambrose Hills)

Character

I picked up a little article last night by Allen Marple, who was editor of Collier's Magazine back in the days of its fabulous success. In the article, he was trying to figure out the requirements for successful writing.

Is it talent? Intelligence? Taste? He has pondered all those things and he said he thought a writer required some of each, plus courage, patience, and "a sort of unshakable self-righting ego."

Then he happened to spend an evening with a writer who had come up the hard way to success. What did this man have?

Marple came to the conclusion that "You throw all those qualities in the pot, cook at a slow burn for some years, and what you've got, if you've got anything, is character. That's what it takes to be a successful writer — or successful carpenter, or successful steeple-jack — a bit of knack at the trade, learned or native, and a hell of a lot of Character."

When you think it through, he's right. Perhaps everyone needs a bit of luck, but I'd hate to bet that your luck isn't what you make it.

The older a man gets the more he notices the fact that the successful men and women of the world have character. The world needs them. In attaining their own success they have created good things for us all.

It took intelligence and character, for example, to invent, develop and merchandise television, printing press, the diamond drill, the telephone, insulin and a thousand and one other things which have improved our lives.

Therefore, if we are wise, we should be willing to reward men of character and genius. Instead of sniping at them. We do not grow big by cutting others down, nor rich by making others poor.

Discourage character and enterprise and you make the whole world poorer; encourage leaders and you help make the whole world wealthier.

Isn't it time we showed some concern for the welfare of the productive people, instead of lavishing all our care on the incompetent? I think so!

WHAT IS INFLATION?

A fellow I've always thought bright asked me a surprising question the other day.

"Say," he said, "I see everybody's talking about inflation. Just what the heck is it. And what can I do about it?"

Maybe you, too, haven't bothered to find out what inflation is, what causes it, and what you can do about it? Some people are so busy at their own affairs they can't take time to study such things. So here's what I told my friend.

"If your wife makes soup," I said, "and it tastes good, would you ask her to put another gallon of water in the pot so there'd be more of it?"

"Heck, no," he said. "That'd spoil it."

"Well, then, you understand inflation. If she puts in more water without adding more meat and vegetables, she's inflated your soup. She made more soup, but she deflated every bowl of it. Put money in the place of water, and goods and services in place of the meat and vegetables, and you've got a fairly good analogy."

He grinned. "As an old souper, I've gotcha! But nobody around our place would try to get away with watering the soup — or the whiskey, either. Who's guilty?"

"You mentioned whiskey," I said. "Who waters it?"

"Gotcha again," he said, "the government, of course. Might have known you'd blame it on the government. You blame everything on the government!"

"Not entirely," I said. "I blame the people who vote for political candidates because they promise to spend money all over the place, money that doesn't produce anything or help get anything produced. That kind of money is like more water on the same meat and vegetables. Governments are to blame to a great extent for not having the courage to hold the line, while they ask others to hold it."

He grinned. "What about me?"

How can I fight this thief that's eating into the value of my bank-roll?"

"You," I said, "can quit loafing. Do a full day's work for a day's pay. Make sure any product that comes from your hand is made as well and as quickly as you can make it. Produce more per hour before you ask for higher hourly pay."

"Ummmm," he said. "Does that go for you, too?"

"It goes for me, too. For everybody in Canada. It's the unit cost of things that kills us. What's the use of producing plentifully if it costs so much per piece that we can't sell it? Let's get costs down and productivity up — then see how much you can buy with your pay check!"

"I go along with you, pal," he said.

I hope you do too!

Launch Contest For Caricature

The creative ability of some Alberta high school student may result in a new symbol for the Red Cross Blood Transfusion Service. In a contest being launched early in the new year by the Alberta division, Canadian Red Cross Society, students are invited to create and name a caricature which might be used in publicizing the Blood Transfusion Service.

The contest requires such a caricature to have as its basic form the outline of a bottle used by Red Cross in collection of blood and to be designed and animated in such a way that it will be easily adaptable for use in newspapers, on posters, for animated characterization on television or other publicity media. In naming the symbol students are asked to submit entries which would identify the Blood Transfusion Service and have an appealing quality for publicity use.

Opening date for the competition is January 5th with deadline for entries February 10th.

Prizes for winning entries have been donated by the Alberta Weekly Newspaper Association and include $50 for the best caricature submitted and $25 for contestant submitting the best name.

The contest has received approval of the Department of Education and contest material has been forwarded through the Junior Red Cross to more than 600 high school principals in the province.

Gould-Oliva Wedding At Edmonton

St. Stephen's College Chapel, Edmonton, Alta., was the scene of a very pretty candlelight wedding service where Norma Rae, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Gould of 14 Bruce Ave., Winnipeg, Man., exchanged marriage vows with Frank Daniel, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Oliva, Coleman, Alta., at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 30.

White and yellow mums along with candelabra provided the setting for the ceremony which was performed by Rev. Ian McMillan of Edmonton.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a ballerina-length gown of French chantilly lace with lily-point sleeves. The sabrina cut work neckline was re-embroidered with iridescent sequins. The long torso was outlined with a wide band of satin ending in a butterfly bow. Her chapel-length veil of mist illusion was held in place by a satin cap-type head-piece trimmed with seed pearls. White satin pumps completed her costume. The bride carried a semi-cascade of red roses with lily of the valley and white satin ribbon. Miss Jean Murphy of Prince Edward Island attended as bridesmaid. Her gown of aqua crystalite was designed on princess lines, the neckline softly pleated, dropping to a V at the back ending in a large bow and draped in panels to the hem. She carried a semi-cascade of white carnations.

The groom was supported by his brother Samuel. The soloist, Mr. Paul Bourri of Edmonton sang "The Lord's Prayer", during the signing of the register.

Mrs. Gould, mother of the bride, chose a navy tie-silk suit and wore a corsage of white carnations.

Mrs. Oliva, the groom's mother, wore an aqua printed silk dress. Her corsage was made up of pink roses.

After the ceremony, a dinner was served in the banquet room of the Corona Hotel. The bride's table was centred with a three-tiered wedding cake, embedded in pink tulle and flanked with pink tapers.

Rev. McMillan proposed the toast to the bride to which the groom ably responded.

For their wedding trip to Banff the bride chose a two-piece printed suit with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Upon their return the happy couple will reside at 12207 80th St., Edmonton.

The bride is a 1954 graduate of St. Boniface School of Nursing and the groom a 1957 graduate in Education of the University of Alberta.

Beverly Aseltine Becomes Bride Of Mr. Robert Lowe

Given in marriage by her father, Chester H. Aseltine, Beverly Aseltine became the bride December 13 of Robert James Lowe of Kimberley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lowe, in a lovely double-ring ceremony at Kimberley United Church. The church was decorated by floor-baskets of chrysanthemums, with the Christmas season displayed by youthful decorations and spruce bouquets as Rev. F. A. McPhee conducted the ceremony.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of white taffeta with a flowing back panel of tiered chantilly lace and net, an empire waistline and lily-point sleeves.

Her only jewelry was a pearl necklace, her gift from the groom, and she carried a cascade of pink roses.

Maid of honor was Florence Brown, with Janice Cox as bridesmaid. Miss Brown wore a gown of pink lace over net taffeta, under a pink lace jacket, lily-point sleeves. She wore a pink headband and a cascade of blue carnations. Miss Cox wore a gown of blue and white lace over net and taffeta, with a matching blue lace jacket with lily-point sleeves. She wore a blue headband and carried a cascade of yellow carnations.

Best man was Keith Lowe, brother of the groom. Ushers were George Adams and Eric Bisgrove, a cousin of the bride.

Mrs. Glanville, the soloist and Mrs. Stuart, the organist, combined with The Lord's Prayer and Recede.

The mother of the bride wore a gown of royal blue, in bengaline sheath and three-quarter sleeves. She wore a pink hat and gloves and a corsage of white carnations and pink roses.

Mrs. Lowe wore a gown of light blue crystalite with full skirt and matching jacket with the three-quarter sleeves, and matching blue hat and gloves. She wore a corsage of pink carnations.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Elks Hall, which was decorated with pink and white streamers and bells. Centering the bride's table was a three-tiered cake.

In charge of the guest book was Arin Ramsay, with Hellenia Strand, Barbara Lowe, Pat Jones, Candy Hansen, Bev Vase, Sharon Hagen and Barbara Arnfasson as servers.

Master of ceremonies at the reception was Al Hansen. Eric Bisgrove made the toast to the bride, with the groom responding. Keith Lowe as best man made a toast to the bridesmaids.

For her honeymoon at Spokane, the bride chose a grey wool sheath, a black (silk) coat, coral hat and gloves and a corsage of white gardenias.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Keith Lowe, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Clausen, Mrs. Ruby Meadows and Miss Janice Cox, all of Calgary; Mr. and Mrs. F. Parker, Ricky and Twyla Dawn, Mr. and Mrs. J. Lowe of Leithbridge; and Mrs. Pauline Vincent of Pincher Creek, Alberta. The newly-weds have taken up residence in Kimberley.

Chinooks Hit Pass

Warm Chinook winds returned to the Crow's Nest Pass district last week and temperatures that dropped to fifty below recently soared to a high 42 above on Tuesday last week. Return of the warm weather that was also enjoyed before the cold snap came Monday afternoon when winds changed to the west bringing in a warm flow of air. Light damp snow accompanied the Chinook. Prior to the cold snap residents here experienced a warm rain that is unusual for this time of the year.

My Daily Prayer

(Author Unknown)

"This coming year I'd like to be a friend to everyone;
I'd like to feel each day well spent at settling of the sun;
I'd like to know that I have done at least one kindly deed.
Before I lay me down to sleep that I have given heed—
To someone's cry for sympathy, or friendship or that I
Have made the day seem brighter to some chance passerby,
And that the world is better still in just some little way.
Because I've tried to live the very best I could each day.

"I'd like to be a ray of light when all is overcast,
I'd like to help someone who failed to blot out all the past.
To start again despite the storms and find the skies are blue,
To know that in this good old world there's lots that's fine and true,
I'd like to be the kind of person everyone will love.
And make the world seem just a little more like heaven above;
I'd like in all my dealings to be true and just and fair.
That God will help me do these things shall be my daily prayer."

Unemployment Questions and Answers

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission. Following are some questions with answers which may be of interest to you.

Q I have been told that the Commission has to try to find work for me of the same type that I had previously and at the same rate of pay, and that I do not have to accept anything else. Is that correct?

A No. Every effort is made to help you find work of the same kind and under similar conditions to that which you previously enjoyed. However, if, after a reasonable period, these efforts are unsuccessful, refusal to apply for or accept employment of another kind at the going rate of wages for that occupation may affect your entitlement to benefit.

Q It has been one year now since my husband filed an application for unemployment benefit but by the time he received his forms, he left for the hospital. I returned the forms. Now he has been unemployed for 14 months and the only work he could perform would be that of an attendant. Can he still get benefit from his old stamps?

A It may be that your husband could now qualify for benefit if he can prove total incapacity during some part of the 14 months to which you refer and provided he is now able to do work for which there is a reasonable demand in the area in which you live. He should make an application for benefit at his local office, giving full particulars. Only then can it be determined definitely whether or not he is entitled to benefit.

Q I am now collecting unemployment insurance which is due to run out in five weeks. This is my first claim. Would I be entitled to seasonal benefit, and if so, when does it start and for how long does it last?

A If your regular benefit runs out after December 1, you will be entitled to seasonal benefit provided you fulfill all the other requirements. It would start immediately after your regular benefit ended and would last for at least 12 weeks but not beyond May 15, 1959. Without an examination of your records it is not possible to give more definite information regarding the duration of your claim.

Q In 1957 I worked in a sawmill as an edger-man. I was earning $8.50 a day and I reckoned board at $2 a day, which would make $10.50. They gave me $12.20 stamps. This year, I worked for the same company at the same wages and under the same conditions, doing the same work, but they gave me $11.25 stamps. Am I entitled to $12.20 stamps?

A If you are working on a five-day week and earning $52.50 each week, you should be credited with $11.25 weekly stamps. You must earn $37 or over in a week to be entitled to a $12.20 weekly stamp.

Q If I have only 13 weeks of fishermen's stamps, can my daily stamps count towards my 15 weeks? Many people tell me that I must have 15 weeks of fishermen's stamps to be entitled to benefit. I have no other fishing stamps since fishing is impossible due to a lack of bait.

A A person must have 15 contribution weeks since the Saturday prior to the previous March 31 in order to qualify for seasonal benefit as a fisherman or otherwise. Both fishing contributions and regular contributions count for seasonal benefit.

Q I have 20 weeks of contributions. Can I start drawing benefit from December 1st? If so, until what date?

A You may qualify for seasonal benefit if you have 15 or more contribution weeks since the Saturday prior to the previous March 31. If you qualify, you will be authorized five weeks of benefit for every six of these contribution weeks, but seasonal benefit is not payable after May 16.

Q If I draw $10 a week from the Government even when unemployed all winter, can this affect my unemployment insurance benefit?

A A claimant is permitted to earn as much each week without loss of benefit. The amount of such earnings depends on the weekly rate of benefit to which the claimant is entitled. Without knowledge of your weekly rate of benefit and what this $10 represents, it is not possible to give a definite answer to your question.

Q I am now working for the Consolidated Paper Corporation, but operations will cease in a month's time. As I have a woodlot, I plan to cut lumber for sawmills. Since I will not receive payment for my product until May or June, am I entitled to unemployment insurance benefit as soon as I am through at Consolidated Paper?

A Whether or not you will be entitled to unemployment insurance benefit will depend upon the extent of your activities in cutting lumber for sawmills. If a considerable amount of your time is spent in this work, you may be considered as self-employed and therefore not eligible for benefit.

"Women Wanted"

There is a new kind of career woman in Canada today. She is an energetic "over 40", who has complete draining a family and is now out looking for a job.

Often this woman is handicapped by lack of job training, the loss of former skills or the need for refresher courses in new methods developed during her 20 years or more of home-making.

That is why the government has recently enlisted the aid of the National Council of Women of Canada for a survey of job opportunities and possible training schemes to help integrate the older woman into the country's labor force.

If this new career woman has been trained in the dietetic profession she will have no difficulties in re-entering the working world, we have been told.

Miss Diane Raymond, president of the Canadian Dietetic Association says there is such a heavy demand for qualified dietitians the older women are welcomed back with open arms.

Even more interesting is the fact that years of practical home-making are said to polish the dietitians professional skills. Also maturity is quite often an extra advantage in many of the important administrative jobs in the field.

Miss Raymond declares that as well as being entirely free of any age limit restrictions the dietetic profession requires no refresher training except in specialized jobs. These are the reasons why the association boasts that its professional training which includes a university degree and a period of internship is "ideal". Miss Raymond says young graduates can command excellent salaries.

If they give it all up for home-making, they are equipped with wonderful knowledge of food, budgeting and administration and if, 2 years later, they decide to return to work they can do so without difficulty.

Correction

In our last issue we stated that "Jackie" Krieh, a candidate in the C.N.P. Winter Carnival Queen Contest, was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. Krieh, this should have read daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Krieh.

According to The World Book Encyclopedia's research department, the average American eats about six pounds of turkey a year. Sixty per cent is eaten at Thanksgiving and Christmas. You're proving the statistics if you eat one and four-fifths pounds of meat at Thanksgiving and the same amount at Christmas.
